

COLUMBIA CHAMBER OF COMMERCE
Celebrating 100 Years

September 6, 2007

To Whom It May Concern:

The Columbia Chamber of Commerce recently engaged Peter Hinshaw of RMHTC to review our telecommunications billing. The professional services provided by RMHTC identified significant savings for the Columbia Chamber of Commerce on telecommunications spending.

RMHTC identified savings on long distance service and data service, including a net savings of $6,700 over three years, and a one-time credit for erroneous billing. Additional savings through an early lease buy-out of equipment was recommended. With the savings from a recommended early equipment buy-out, the amount increased to $13,717.64. Working with RMHTC was easy and no unexpected issues came up during their analysis and recommendations.

Sincerely:

Donald M. Laird
